The EMA of B.C. (formerly known as the ici EMA) assists businesses to effectively anticipate and respond to environmental challenges with well thought out environmental management practices and policies. Members include corporations in many different business sectors, ranging from British Columbia's largest organizations to many smaller companies with diverse environmental issues. Regardless of size and business sector, member companies have the common interest of requiring sound environmental management, remaining current, understanding new developments as well as exchanging ideas and experiences.

VISION:

- To encourage education, share knowledge among members and create a forum for environmental management issues.

OBJECTIVES:

- To provide a network for the generation and exchange of information and ideas among members.
- To serve as a key resource of environmental information for members.
- To address existing and emerging environmental issues.
- To promote cooperation, communication and understanding among members.

"Court cases from around the country make it clear that membership and participation in organizations like the EMA of BC can be a valuable piece of evidence in your company's due diligence defense to an environmental prosecution."

Paul R. Cassidy, Senior Canadian Environmental Lawyer
